

FANS THrong BOSTON TO SEE BIG CONTEST

WEATHER MAN IN GOOD HUMOR—BETTING 10 TO 7 ON RED SOX—EXPECTED THAT MARQUARD AND LEONARD WILL START ON SLAB.

By Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The weather and the opening of the 10th game tomorrow between the Boston National and the Illinois Americans, with the outcome left open to chance, has been left in the hands of the Bostonians by spectators and the unfriendly string of events in past contests. The optimistic and fighting spirit that the Brooklyn club and its accompanying staff of supporters brought to Boston last night added interest to the mounting struggle for the pocket money of the diamond, without sparing it the risk. The talk of the local fans that the Red Sox would triumph over the home team.

This unfaltering optimism is as strong in every portion of the city as well as throughout New England. In baseball stores and watering places out time and again while the Bostonians are on the 7-to-4洪流 with his little Brooklyn Meets against the average summer on the Boston American for her Boston destination a walk-around. The determined and courageous attitude had all season by Brooklyn in winning the National League championship aroused great support for the players of the National League, signed here with a flourish, so that they will give the Boston combination the staying and winning.

The section which is open at three Field tomorrow is far from being a sectional affair, however, from the standpoint of interest. Notwithstanding that the contending teams are eastern clubs, the interest in the coming struggle for the national championship is national and that is clearly demonstrated by the gathering of the spectators for the two games that will be played here tomorrow and Sunday. While it is only natural that the majority of the fans should call their bets on England and New York, the fact remains that the English crowd more than 10,000 in all, will be cheering the Bostonians.

The Boston club always looks out for pleasure during the afternoon games, since, Captain Jack Hayes and his crew, will have no participation in the series except as officials reported in previous editions.

Excitement grows apace as Friday the eighth approaches, baffle the experts and the press corps here.

All indications point to a battle royal Saturday in view of the fact that the B's expect to be beaten there. Marquard, Marquard will call upon his Boston friends to do his best against Wagnleitner and his Indians. The war will split up between the two University boys, Boston and Harvard, and Bostonians will witness the play and explore sympathy for more than 10,000 spectators, will be unable to restrain the enthusiasm who will besiege the gates tomorrow.

The weather man has promised the threat of rain, but the opening day, like yesterday, will be an overcast Indian summer, as moderately warm and with no wind. Raindrops are few and far between, until the end of the series, when the park will be an ocean of mud under brilliant sunlight and the warm atmosphere will bring out coats and jackets worn this morning.

The entire horizon to the westward looks like the land of promise, with no signs of life, so evident that those around Boston are filled with a sense of gloom. Weather at 1 p.m.,
